The shrinkable labels are used for batteries. US 5,747,192 and US 5,725,966 are partially directed to label for batteries, and are issued in class 429. I am only extending my search out of class 428, because it is required by the Office and my SPE. Sorry, for the inconvenient I may have caused.

Why in the world would you ever think there was a search in the batteries for a shrinkable label? There are only specifics to the battery structure itself in this class. There is no search here.

Would you give me a search in class 429 for the above case? The claimed shrinkable label is used for battery.

Thank You!
